

Delta Modules One and Two – a reference list

The following is not meant to imply that you should read everything on this list – life is too short for that. However, access to many of them will be helpful. You should contrive to get access to at least one from each section.

Some of these references do not address teaching directly – nor does Module One, of course – but many do and they are specific to Module Two.

You should also have access to some current ELT coursebooks.
